

Food safety policy

Visy is committed to maintaining the integrity of the food chain by implementing Food Safety Management Systems to produce food sector packaging materials that meet high standards of food safety and which comply with relevant legal requirements. We remain committed to eliminating food safety risks that result in injury or illness to the end user of a product manufactured by Visy.

We recognise that effective food safety management is critical to help our customers protect the health and safety of the end user of a product; and is important for maintaining the reputations of our customers and their brands.

How does Visy make sure the food contact materials we manufacture are safe?

- We have implemented effective Food Safety Management Systems incorporating risk-based hazard assessment and control (HACCP) and good manufacturing practices (GMP)
- We understand local and international regulations for food contact materials and make sure we respond to changes and new requirements as appropriate
- We develop and maintain processes so that food contact materials we produce comply with relevant regulations and are suitable for Visy's recommended intended end use
- We communicate food safety issues and requirements internally and externally as appropriate
- We have a Food Safety Culture that equips, supports, and inspires our people to deliver safe food contact materials

Visy leadership cultivates a positive Food Safety Culture by:

- committing to the production of safe food contact materials by adopting and maintaining the Food Safety Management System
- promoting awareness of the importance of food safety and how it relates to food contact materials and manufacturing processes to personnel at all levels of the business
- providing adequate resources, training and support to maintain and continually improve the Food Safety Management Systems

- developing expertise in interpretation and application of relevant regulations and guidelines and providing high level technical support for compliance across the business
- clearly and openly communicating food safety roles, responsibilities, accountabilities, objectives and performance outcomes
- ensuring all employees understand and are held accountable for their food safety and regulatory responsibilities
- requiring and encouraging staff to report actual or potential food safety issues and empowering staff to resolve food safety issues within their scope of work

Visy's Food Safety Policy applies to food sector packaging and food contact materials manufactured by Visy and the systems and services that support these activities. Visy recognises that different levels of food safety management are appropriate to different products and materials and, where relevant, these systems will be tailored to specific products at a divisional and site level.
